Project aims and goals:

This research project aims to address how foreign states have responded to China's economic rise, in particular in the currency realm, by analyzing their reactions to the internationalization of the Chinese renminbi.

Accomplishment(s) of Project (400 words):

(*If the impact of COVID-19 makes it difficult to execute the plan, describe the reason here :)

This research project found, among others, that there are significant variances in the degrees of renminbi use across countries and that cooperative policy measures between China and foreign states have facilitated use of the renminbi in the countries. Those findings have been published as an academic journal paper and as a book chapter, as well as being presented in academic conferences.
