

Andrea PRESSELLO (Italy)

Dissertation topic

“Japan’s Southeast Asia Policy and the Cambodian Conflict, 1979-1993: Diplomacy Amid Great Power Politics and Regional Confrontation”

Research interests

Japan’s diplomatic history and international relations in Asia

e-mail: doc09014@grips.ac.jp

Publications

Andrea Pressello, ‘Japan’s Twin-Track Diplomacy During the Cambodian Conflict, 1979-1984: A “Member of the West” Pursuing an Independent Foreign Policy’, Asian Studies Review, March 2013, vol. 37, No. 1

Andrea Pressello, ‘Japanese diplomacy during the Cambodian peace process and Japan’s post-Cold War role in Southeast Asia: the legacy of the Fukuda Doctrine, 1989-1993’, Japan Forum, vol. 26, No. 1, 2014

Andrea Pressello, ‘The Fukuda Doctrine and Japan’s Role in Shaping Post-Vietnam War Southeast Asia’, Japanese Studies, February 2014, forthcoming

Presentations

May 2013, Sendai (Japan): Presentation at: 「東日本大震災学術調査 シンポジウム」 (Symposium - Academic Investigation on the Great East Japan Earthquake)

Title: 「東日本大震災時の日米協力と日米同盟への影響」(Japan-US cooperation during the Great East Japan Earthquake: impact on the alliance)

Nov. 2011, Tsukuba (Japan): Paper presented at the 2011 Convention of the Japan Association of International Relations

Title: "Japanese Diplomacy during the Cambodian Conflict, 1979-1984; Japan's Southeast Asian Policy and the End of Detente"

Mar. 2011, Honolulu (Hawaii): Presentation at the Annual Conference of the Association for Asian Studies

Title: "Japan's Southeast Asian policy and the Cold War: Japanese diplomacy during the Cambodian conflict"

Current position

Visiting Fellow, Sophia University

Working experience

Education

Ph.D. in International Relations, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies, Tokyo

MA in Public Policy, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies, Tokyo

Languages

Italian (native), English (fluent), Japanese (proficient)

Twitter:

Facebook:

G+:

Linked-in:

Blog:

[optional link to other CV]