

Database Guidance for WEB OF SCIENCE

Web of Science is a large database for cited references and by using Web of Science, you can easily find influential articles and proceedings, analyze the latest trends and specify the representative authors in certain fields.

Social Science Citation Index (SSCI) and Journal Citation Reports (JCR) are not available at GRIPS.

| | |
|-------------|-----------------------------|
| Date: | Monday, 25th. January, 2016 |
| Time: | 16:40 - (18:10) |
| Place: | Lecture room B of 5th floor |
| Instructor: | Staff from Thomson Reuters |
| Language: | ENGLISH |

Available contents at GRIPS are:

✓ Science Citation Index Expanded: 1990-

Provides bibliographic and citation information of natural science, covering over 8,500 journals of world leading scientific and technical journals across 150 disciplines.

✓ Conference Proceedings Citation Index: 1990-

Provides information of published literature of conferences, symposia, seminars, and conventions worldwide.
Useful to understand the impact of academic conferences.

How to apply:

Send your name and GRIPS ID to lib@grips.ac.jp

Applications will be closed when all places are filled.