What is "EBSCOhost Database"?

EBSCOhost Database is the world's most-used reference resource. It is a customizable, intuitive search experience designed to cater to user needs and preferences at every level of research, with over 300 full text and secondary databases available.

(1) EBSCOhost Databases you can access are below:

■ Academic Search Premier

Academic Search Premier contains indexing and abstracts for more than 8,600 journals, with full text for more than 4,600 of those titles. PDF backfiles to 1975 or further are available for well over one hundred journals, and searchable cited references are provided for more than 1,000 titles. Academic Search Premier contains unmatched full-text coverage in biology, chemistry, engineering, physics, psychology, religion & theology, etc.

Academic Search Premier contains over 8,600 Abstracts and Indexed Journals (nearly 7,400 Peer-Reviewed Journals), and more than 4,600 Full-Text Journals (nearly 3,900 Peer-Reviewed Journals).

An overview of EBSCOhost Databases

What is EBSCOhost?

— a powerful online reference system accessible via the Internet.

- It offers a variety of proprietary full text databases and popular databases from leading information providers.
- The comprehensive databases range from general reference collections to specially designed, subject-specific databases for public, academic, medical, corporate and school libraries.

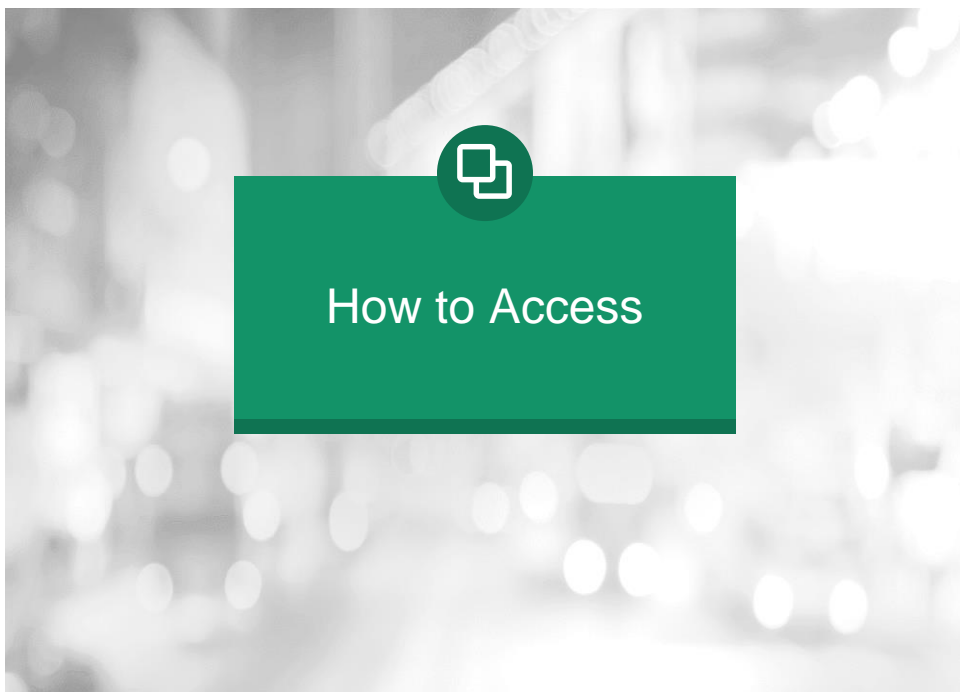

Comprehensive, Scholarly Full-Text Database for Multidisciplinary Research

- Academic Search Premier contains indexing and abstracts for more than 8,600 journals (nearly 7,400 Peer-Reviewed Journals), with full text for more than 4,600 of those titles (nearly 3,900 Peer-Reviewed Journals).
- Academic Search Premier contains unmatched full-text coverage in biology, chemistry, engineering, physics, psychology, religion & theology, etc

the American Economic Association's electronic database, is the world's foremost source of references to economic literature.

•This database contains more than one million records, with citations and abstracts dating back to 1886. Adhering to the high-quality standards long recognized by subscribers to the Journal of Economic Literature (JEL) this American Economic Association's electronic database is a reliable source for economic research citations and abstracts.

Off-Campus Access via VPN

Choose Databases window

The screenshot shows the 'Choose Databases' window. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'Sign In', 'Folder', 'Preferences', 'Languages', and 'Help'. The main heading is 'Choose Databases' with a sub-heading 'NATIONAL GRADUATE I FOR POLICY STU'. Below the heading, there is a brief instruction: 'To search within a single database, click the database name listed below. To select more than one database to search, check the boxes next to the databases and click Continue.' A yellow 'Continue' button is located at the top left. Below it, there is a 'Select / deselect all' checkbox. The 'EconLit' database is selected, indicated by a checked checkbox and a red box around the entire entry. The description for 'EconLit' states: 'EconLit, the American Economic Association's electronic database, is the world's foremost source of references to economic literature. The database contains more than 1.1 million records from 1886-present. EconLit covers virtually every area related to economics.' Below the description are links for 'More Information'. The 'Academic Search Premier' database is also listed with a description and links for 'Title List' and 'More Information'. The 'eBook Collection (EBSCOhost)' database is listed at the bottom with an unchecked checkbox.

Abstract: This study uses a dynamic general equilibrium model to quantify the effects of corruption and tax evasion on fiscal policy and economic growth. The model is calibrated to match estimates of tax evasion in developing countries. The calibrated model is able to generate reasonable predictions for net tax rates, the corruption associated with public investment projects, and the negative correlation between corruption and tax revenue. The presence of corruption and evasion is shown to have significant, but not large, negative effects on economic growth. The relatively moderate effects help explain the absence of a robust negative correlation between growth and corruption in cross-country data. The model also implies that cracking down on tax evasion before addressing corruption can be a bad idea and that higher wages for public officials can improve
